WHO IS GEORGE KENNAN?

There will be no man on the lecture platform in this country during the present year who will attract so much attention or command so large audiences as George Kennan, who has so deeply interested many thousands of people by his articles in the Century magazine on Siberia and the exile system of Russia. There is being so much said about Kennan that the Gazette has been requested to give its readers regarding his life.

Mr. Kennan is a Ohio man, having been born in Norwalk, and will be 45 years old next month. He was educated at the public schools in his native town, but attended the Columbus high school for a time, and worked as night telegraph operator to pay his expenses. For a short time he was operator in Cincinnati, and in 1865-6 he was a leader of one of the Russo-American telegraph company's exploring parties in northeastern Siberia. As superintendent of construction for the middle district of the Siberian division from 1866 to 1868, he explored and located a route for the Russo-American telegraph line between the Okhotsk sea and Behring strait, spending nearly three years in constant travel in the interior of Siberia, and then returned to the United States on the abandonment of the enterprise. He went to Russia in 1870 to explore the mountains of the eastern Caucasus. In 1885-6 Mr. Kennan made a journey of 15,000 miles through northern Russia and Siberia for the purpose of investigating the Russian exile system, and visited all the convict prisons and mines, and afterwards explored the wildest parts of the most northern portion of Russia.

Mr. Kennan will deliver some fifty lectures in the United States during this year on the Russian exile system, for which, it is said, he will receive $30,000. His lectures will be, as his Century articles have been, full of special interest. No one supposed, until he read Kennan's awful story of the convict prisons and mines that there was so little mercy and justice in the Russian administration of law. Every one can now see why there are so many nihilists in Russia. The despotism of the government breeds nihilism. Kennan became one in a spirit.

WHAT DOES IT AMOUNT TO?

The race around the world between Miss Nellie Bly, of the New York World, and Miss Elizabeth Bisland, of the Cosmopolitan magazine, is one of those queer journalistic freaks, the sense of which can hardly be understood. Of course, it was no doubt intended as an advertising scheme, but even from a business point of view, the advantage resulting therefrom is difficult to see.

The World is a powerful newspaper, and Mr. Pulitzer is a man of great enterprise and generosity. When the question came up as to the shortest time in which a person could encircle the globe, Mr. Pulitzer made up his mind that he would make a practical test of the question, and he selected Miss Bly as the person who should make the race. She has been in the employ of the World for some time, is an excellent journalist, and as near as one can guess, for no one has definite information on the subject, she is between 25 and 30 years old. She is a strong-minded woman, a daring sort of a creature, and a speed of 60 or 70 miles an hour does not disturb her more than a gentle run of 30.

The Cosmopolitan showed as much interest in the race around the world as the World, and Mr. Walker, the editor, determined to contest the time with Miss Bly, and equipped Miss Bisland for the race. These two girls left New York on the 14th of November, Miss Bisland going westward, and Miss Bly eastward, the latter having nine hours the start of Miss Bisland. In this strange race around the world, Miss Bly will win. She will reach New York to-night (Saturday) and Miss Bisland is crossing the Atlantic on a slow steamer, a misfortune she could not avoid. Miss Bly will make the trip around the world in a little less than 74 days, making the fastest time ever made.

Miss Bly was carried from San Francisco to Chicago on a special train composed of an engine, a baggage car, and a Pullman diner and sleeper combined, for which Mr. Pulitzer paid $2,500. The entire trip will cost the World some $8,000.

Miss Bisland is a very handsome young woman, and was born in the south. Her first editorial work was done on the New Orleans Times Democrat. She is a very graceful writer and her description of her race around the world will be well worth reading.

WILL THE PARTY SKULK?

At the meeting of the state democratic committee held in Milwaukee last week it was agreed to maintain silence upon the Bennett law and thus reap the advantage of the neutral position. There can be no neutrality on a question of this kind. A political party can justify its existence only by meeting public questions openly and fairly. The party which skulks on any question of public interest forfeits the respect of the people. No party can justify its existence by inactivity or secure permanent advantage by being non committal.

The Bennett law is only a convenient term to designate the question in issue. It is our public school system which is assailed. The public school has grown in response to the demand that every child be furnished an opportunity to be educated. Nothing evil can flourish on a purpose so beneficent. Any attacks made upon it, any slurs cast upon it, should stimulate the people to sustain it in no uncertain way. The attempt to make the democratic party tacitly approve the acts of those who denounce the public schools is an outrage to which the members of that party will not submit.—Manitowoc Pilot, dem.

It would be quite gratifying to all right-thinking people if the democratic leaders should boldly march to the front of the line and maintain a firm and patriotic position regarding the Bennett law. But the chances are against the democratic leaders taking any such position. Experience teaches that a conviction of duty does not often stimulate the democratic party. There is not an intelligent democrat in all the state who will say that the provisions of the Bennett law are not just. Not one can be found who will honestly say that in the parochial schools of the Germans or the Poles the children should be allowed to grow to manhood and womanhood without a knowledge of the English language, for every democrat will confess that no boy can reach worthy citizenship who cannot speak the language of the country in which he lives.

But about these features of the question the democratic leaders do not seem to be concerned. They would rather skulk than make a bold, honorable fight. They would rather suppress an honest expression of judgment than run the risk of losing a vote. They look for success for themselves through a republican division, rather than a strong forward movement of their party. They prefer to play the part of political eunuchs, and truckle to a cowardly spirit, than make a commanding fight for principle.

But what will the masses of the democratic party do? Will they sneeze when the leaders take snuff? Will they surrender their convictions at the command of the leaders, or will they tighten their grip on their courage and their conscience, and vote as their wise judgment dictates? According to the reports, there are some democratic papers and many democratic voters who will sustain that party which sustains the public schools and an English education.

Colonel Bob Ingersoll's doctrine, put forward in his recent speech before the state bar association, that society commits a crime in punishing criminals, is almost maudlin in its sentimentality, and will not commend itself to the non-criminal part of the community.—Buffalo Courier.

No one is surprised to see Ingersoll making a plea against the punishment of criminals. He is so "tender-hearted" that he is shocked when a criminal is made to suffer the penalty of the law for any crime. He has strong sympathy for the wrong-doer but not a word of condolence does he utter for those who have been wronged. The explanation of this is that nearly his whole professional life has been spent in defending criminals. It is said he has never engaged in the prosecution of a man charged with an offense. He has been on the side of thieves and murderers so long that he begins to believe that all thieves and murderers are innocent; or that if they did commit the crime they were not responsible for their own acts.

That strange character, Harrison H. Riddleberger, of Virginia, died on Friday. In his youth he was uncommonly brilliant, and was a captain in the confederate army by the time he was 20. Before he was 30 he was attorney general of Virginia, and at 37 he was elected to the United States senate as a readjuster, and was on the republican side of the senate most of the time. No man ever entered the senate chamber with brighter promises surrounding him than did Mr. Riddleberger. But before he had been in the senate very long, he saw the faction that elected him go to pieces in Virginia, and he became disappointed, took to excessive drinking, and his fall into degradation was very rapid and irretrievable. Mr. Riddleberger had fine abilities, but was totally lacking in moral force.

Among the strange political movements suggested at this time, that announced by General Stewart L. Woodford, of New York, the noted republican orator, is the most strange and radical:

"I believe that no uneducated man should be allowed the privilege of the franchise. I will go further; I sincerely believe that the republican party should put at the top of its platform a plank denying the right of franchisement to all uneducated persons. I believe that when slavery was taken out of the constitution, education should have been put in. The republicans might lose an election or two on this issue, it is true, but political parties should not be created to win elections but to secure ideas."

Senator Ingalls is finishing the last chapter of his novel. If the work is half as sharp as his speeches, it will be astonishingly interesting, and will have a large sale.

Before Senator Farwell begins his war on the president, he should read the touching little story of the man who monkied with the buzz-saw.

Earthquake Shock in Tennessee.

CAIRO, Ill., Jan. 25.—The officers of the City of Baton Rouge, passing up, report a heavy shock of earthquake at Bellfoot Lake, Tenn. A terrible panic resulted among the inhabitants of the locality, who have not forgotten the results of the great earthquake of many years ago, when New Madrid and much of the adjacent territory sank beneath the Mississippi.

Kansas State Officers Resign.

TOPEKA, Kas., Jan. 25.—James W. Hamilton has handed his resignation as State Treasurer to Gov. Humphrey, to take effect on the appointment and qualification of his successor, who will be named within the next ten days. The resignation of J. B. Clegston as Supreme Court Commissioner has been accepted by Gov. Humphrey.

Masons and Bricklayers at Kansas City.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 25.—The International Union of Masons and Bricklayers have elected these officers: President, Andrew J. McDonald of Pittsburg; secretary, Thomas O'Hearn of Cohees, N. Y.; treasurer, Pat Murray of Albany, N. Y.

Snubbed the English Embassy.

LISBON, Jan. 25.—As a further mark of animosity toward England 3,000 leading citizens called to-day at the Spanish and French embassies, leaving their cards. The English embassy was carefully avoided.

THE NATIONAL CAPITAL.

THE DRESSED BEEF INQUIRY RESUMED.

Railroad Men Summoned Before Senator Vest's Committee—A Democratic Caucus—Capital Gossip.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25. — The meat products investigating committee of which Senator Vest of Missouri is chairman, has resumed its session after an interim of several weeks. The committee has concluded its inquiry into everything except the railroad branch of the investigation, and the last session was for the purpose of questioning officers of several of the large railroad corporations as to the rates and facilities governing the transportation of cattle and dressed beef. After this branch of inquiry is finished Senator Vest will begin the preparation of the report of the committee.

Samuel Sloan, president of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western railroad company, testified in answer to interrogatories from Senator Vest, that the Lackawanna road had refused to transport cars belonging to other people, and had had some litigation growing out of this refusal with Nelson Morris of Chicago.

Other witnesses examined were John King, president of the New York, Lake Erie & Western; and A. Chappell, general manager of the Chicago & Alton. The hearing will be continued the coming week.

CANADA'S SENTIMENTS.

The Strength of the Reciprocity and Annexation Movement Discussed.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—S. J. Ritchie, of Ohio, appeared before the ways and means committee this morning and argued in favor of the free importation of Canadian mineral ores and in favor of unrestricted reciprocity with the dominion.

The chairman having ascertained that Mr. Richie was conversant with Canadian matters, inquired as to the sentiment in Canadia in reference to annexation.

Mr. Ritchie replied that any sentiment which any one cared to fish for could be found in Canada. There was a considerable sentiment in favor of reciprocity, and, by taking the proper course, the United States could increase it.

Mr. Payne asked as to the feeling toward the Butterworth reciprocity bill.

Mr. Ritchie replied that the opposition in the Canadian parliament numbering about one-third of the membership, had adopted the Butterworth bill as its platform. In reply to a question by Mr. Carlisle the witness stated that American interests in Canada were very large.

Mr. Carlisle asked whether Canada would give the United States free coal if the United States gave her free iron. Mr. Ritchie replied emphatically in the affirmative.

The Hon. Benjamin Butterworth of Ohio then addressed the committee in support of his bill for reciprocity with Canada.

A DEMOCRATIC CAUCUS.

Determination to Oppose the Proposed New Rules of the House.

WASNINGTON, Jan. 25. — The Democratic members of the House met in caucus to discuss the rules as proposed by the committee on rules, but not yet reported to the House. Speeches were made in opposition to the proposed rules, and the general sentiment expressed that the party should be firm as a unit against the curtailing of the privileges of the minority and protect themselves by the usual filibustering tactics. The general expression was in favor of a refusal by the Democrats to vote when the roll was called on rules in the hope that a quorum of Republican members alone can not be had. The caucus adjourned without action.

The House.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—On motion of Mr. Grosvenor (Ohio) the House insisted on its amendment to the Senate bill for the removal of obstructions from the Missouri river, and a conference was ordered.

Mr. Walker (Mo.), from the committee on commerce, reported, and the House passed the Senate bill authorizing the construction of a bridge across the Missouri river near the mouth of the Kansas river.

The House then went into committee of the whole (Mr. Burrows of Michigan in the chair) for the further consideration of the customs administrative bill.

Investigating Chandler's Charges.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—The court of inquiry appointed by Secretary Tracy to investigate the charges that naval officers intended to secure lobbyists to have their pay increased met Friday. A number of witnesses were examined who testified to being asked to assist, and also to receiving letters from ex-Congressman Thomas, tendering his services to secure the passage of the bill for certain monetary considerations.

Denied by the Chinese Minister.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—The Chinese minister authorizes a denial of the story printed in a New York paper that he had approved of the propositions of Count Mitklewiez for the formation of an Oriental-American bank in China and that he would shortly forward propositions to the Chinese authorities with his indorsement.

Opposed to International Copyright.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—Mr. Gardiner G. Hubbard made argument before the House committee on the judiciary in opposition to the international copyright bill. He read statistics to show that the American publications increased in late years and that the American author was not suffering under the existing state of affairs.

Negroes Thank Ingalls.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—A delegation of colored men has called on Senator Ingalls and presented an address from Louisiana Republicans now temporarily in Washington, thanking him for his speech on the race question. Senator Ingalls then told them with patience he felt sure they would win.

Pan-Americans Visit Baltimore.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—The delegates to the international American conference went to Baltimore Saturday as the guests of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association of that city. They were taken to the new steel plant and ship building works at Steeltown and other places of interest, and a banquet has been provided for the evening.

MILLIONS FOR A NAVY.

Secretary Tracy's Plans Indorsed by the Senate Committee.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—An important meeting of the Senate naval committee has been held at which, after considerable discussion, the committee decided upon the policy which will govern it during this Congress of the work of building up the navy. This is, in brief, that great line-of-battle ships like the English Ben Bow should be constructed at once. Senators Chandler and McPherson, however, are not in accord with the decision reached, and majority and minority reports will be submitted to the Senate. Senator Stanford is also not wholly committed to the decision reached.

In accordance with this decision Senator Hale was instructed to report favorably the bill introduced by him some days ago embodying the recommendations contained in Secretary Tracy's annual report.

H. H. RIDDLEBERGER DEAD.

The Ex-Senator from Virginia Passes Away.

WOODSTOCK, Va. Jan. 25.—Ex-Senator Harrison H. Riddleberger died at 2:30 o'clock Friday morning. His death was not unexpected, and all the members of the family were at his bedside when the end came.

H. H. RIDDLEBERGER

Senator Riddleberger began his public career when he was but a boy. At the close of the rebellion he was a captain in the confederate army and was but 20 years old. He was one of the most dashing sol-diers and fighters of the Tenth legion. He was born at Edinburg, Va., and received a thorough education. He studied law and was admitted to practice in 1866, and quickly became the idol of the people around the section of country in which he lived.

For two years after the war he was the commonwealth's attorney and was twice elected to the House of Delegates and once to the State Senate. Mr. Riddleberger combined the profession of law with that of editor and was connected with three papers in that capacity—the Tenth Legion, Shenandoah Democrat, and Virginian. He was a member of the State committee of the Conservative party until 1875, was a Presidential elector on the Democratic ticket of 1876, and the same on the Readjuster ticket in 1880. In 1881 he was elected to the Senate as a Readjuster. His term expired in 1889. Mr. Riddleberger was an orator of no mean ability and a man who could have won a brilliant reputation but for his fondness for alchoholic stimulants.

AN ALARMING SITUATION.

Fears Entertained of a Revolt in the State Penitentiary.

HELENA, Mont., Jan. 25.—Gov. Toole, Marshal Irvin, warden at the State penitentiary at Deer Lodge, and the speakers of the Republican and Democratic Houses of Representatives have held a conference to discuss a plan for providing funds to prevent a revolt in the penitentiary and the escape of the 144 convicts confined therein. The penitentiary can accommodate only 144 convicts, the number now on hand, and some of these are now confined in log shacks in the prison grounds. There are only fourteen guards and the chances are that the prisoners, who are preparing for a break for liberty, will carry it into execution unless steps are at once taken to head them off. The plan proposed was to have a committee of three of each party to select such bills now before the House as require immediate attention and pass them, and especially those appropriating funds for the penitentiary. The Democratic House Speaker demurred and asked time to consider the proposition.

PANIC IN BUENOS AYRES.

A Number of Big Business Houses Forced to the Wall.

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—Reports from Buenos Ayres via London, received here to-day, state that there has been a large number of failures there, which foot up nearly $10,000,000. These reports were confirmed by dispatches received by James E. Ward, a shipping merchant here. Advices from Messrs. Shaw Brothers & Co., Birmingham and Buenos Ayres, state that the firm of Repetto, Palpaglion & Co. had failed for $6,000,000. This house did an immense business in jobbing the products of the Argentine Republic and had considerable shipping interests in Europe. The firm had large warehouses throughout the Republic and carried a heavy stock of hardware and provisions. It is stated that the house had no direct business relations with any firm in this city. SWINDLED "OLD HUTCH."

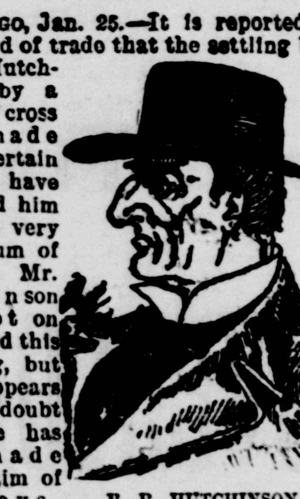
HIS EMPLOYES ROB THE VETERAN SPECULATOR.

Anarchist Most Must Serve a Year's Sentence—The Cronin Convicts at Work—Criminal Matters.

CHICAGO, Jan. 25.—It is reported on the board of trade that the settling boys of B. P. Hutchinson, by a series of cross trades made to a certain broker, have swindled him out of a very large sum of money. Mr. Hutchinson was not on the board this morning, but there appears to be no doubt that he has been made the victim of his boys.



B. P. HUTCHINSON.

Nothing else was talked of this morning by the "bulls" and "bears," and the amount taken was reported to have been as much as $100,000. The old gentleman has always boasted of being able to get good clerks for small wages, but in this case he has got the worst of the bargain.

The conspirators in the case, it is said, are Thomas Stoner and Bert King. The former was a clerk in Mr. Hutchinson's office and the latter in the office of W. P. Dickenson, a commission merchant on the board. Both men have been missing since Monday last and it is believed that they are now safe in Canada. Their plan of operation was this: King would go to Stoner and have him margin up against Mr. Hutchinson on his own clearance-sheet to the credit of W. P. Dickenson. King would make no corresponding entry on Dickenson's clearance-sheet, as he should have done. The amount claimed by Dickenson would be paid into the clearing-house, but would not be collected, and Stoner would then go to Hutchinson's cashier and have a check made out in favor of Dickenson, which he would hand to King, who would have it cashed, and then the two would divide the money between them. The fraud was discovered by S. G. Powell, manager of the clearing-house, who had his suspicions aroused by so many checks passing between Hutchinson and Dickenson, and he called Mr. Hutchinson's attention to the matter, and an investigation was begun. The culprits got word of it, however, and fled.

MOST MUST SERVE HIS TERM.

His Sentence to One Year's Imprisonment Affirmed by the Supreme Court.

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—Johann Most, the Anarchist agitator, will have to serve out the sentence imposed upon him some time ago by Judge Cowing. The charge against him was inciting to riot. His trial took place during the excitement caused by the hanging of the Chicago Anarchists. Shortly after that event the Anarchists in this city honored the memory of their dead brethren with a parade. There were also a number of meetings held, at one of which Most made a fiery speech that excited his auditors to wild frenzy, and before he could finish he was arrested. His trial followed and he was sentenced to serve one year in the penitentiary and pay a fine of $500. The case was appealed and the Anarchist released on bail pending the appeal. The general term of the Supreme court has handed down its decision confirming the conviction and sentence.

CRONIN CONVICTS AT WORK.

Burke, O'Sullivan and Coughlin in Good Health—An Unfounded Rumor.

JOLIET, Ill., Jan. 25.—It was rumored Friday that Martin Burke had committed suicide in prison, but the report had no foundation. Concerning the Cronin murderers the deputy warden said: "They are all in good condition and working well and have good appetites. O'Sullivan, who works in shoe shop No 7 treeing shoes and boots under Keeper Seville, was sick one day with the grippe, but is all right now. It is good work for him and will cure his dyspepsia. Burke is coopering under Keeper Tompkins, and works all right. He will make a good cooper, and will soon be able to make money at overtime. Coughlin is squaring sandstone under Keeper Fred Pirman and works with a good will. They all behave themselves well and do their work, and no complaint is made about any of them. The boodlers were the attraction at the prison; now they are lost sight of, and the Cronin convicts monopolize the curiosity."

Death Before Arrest.

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—The accounts of George H. Lounsberry, cashier of the New York postoffice, have been under investigation for several days. To-day it was discovered they were $27,000 short. Inspectors were dispatched to his home at Hackensack, N. J., to bring him here in order to give him an opportunity to explain the deficiency, but he shot himself upon their arrival. The wound is pronounced fatal.

A Murder Case Grows More Mysterious.

PARIS, Jan. 25.—The Gouffe murder case grows more mysterious. Fresh names are implicated, and the further the investigation proceeds the greater the conspiracy appears to be.

The latest arrest and one of the highest importance is that of M. Choteau, brother-in-law of Eyrand, the suspected murderer of Gouffe. It is reported that Choteau is the man who supplied the murderers with money.

Death of Chief Sappo Vo-Na-Ro.

HARSH PURGATIVE REMEDIES are fast giving way to the gentle action and mild effects of Carter's Little Liver Pills. If you try them, they will certainly please you.

Nature in Convulsion

Is terrific. Volcanic eruptions, cyclones earthquakes are awfully and tremendously picturesques, but scarcely desirable to emulate in action and effect by the administration of remedies which produce convulsion and agony in the abnormal portion of the human frame. Such is the effect of the old fashioned violent purgatives happily falling more and more into disuse, and of which Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is the wholesome, pleasant and far more effective accedaneum. They weakened the intestines—the Bitters invigorates. They left the bowels inactive, because incapacitated by ensuing feebleness. The Bitters, on the contrary, and because it enables, not forces them to act—a vast and fortunate difference—perpetuates their activity and regularity. The liver is beneficially stimulated, as the kidneys also are, by this medicine, which easily conquers, also, malaria, nervousness and rheumatism.

Royalty in Danger.

ATHENS, Jan. 25.—The Queen of Greece had a narrow escape from a frightful death to-day. While driving through the streets in an open carriage an electric-light wire broke and a portion of it fell upon the Queen and tightly enwrapped her. Within a minute after the wires were removed from her the current was turned on and her escape is regarded as almost miraculous.

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—The stock market this morning was quiet at the opening. It developed a firm tone, however, and before the close of the hour material advances had been scored in some stocks. Considerable activity accompanied the rise and Reading. Missouri Pacific, Sugar Refineries, Oregon Transcontinental, and Atchison showed large transactions. The best prices were not maintained in all cases, but at 11 o'clock the market, while again dull, was firm, generally at small fractions better than the opening prices. Atchison became the feature of the stock market after 11 o'clock and made a further advance. Missouri Pacific & St. Paul also became more prominent. The firm to strong tone prevailed until close to noon, when slight recessions occurred in some stocks. At noon the market was dull and rather heavy at something under the best prices.

Why continue the use of irritating powders, snuffs or liquids. Ely's Cream Balm, pleasant of application and a sure cure for catarrh and cold in the head, can be had for 50 cents. It is easily applied into the nostrils, is safe and pleasant, and is curing the most obstinate cases. It gives relief at once.

TERRIBLE GAS EXPLOSION

SPECTATORS AT A FIRE FEARFULLY MANGLED.

Five Killed Outright and Over Forty Injured—Street Car Accident—The Casualty Record.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Jan. 25.—This city has been visited by a horrible calamity. The fire department was called shortly after 5 o'clock to the corner of Wall street and Noble alley and was busily engaged in extinguishing a fire, when an explosion suddenly occurred in the burning building. It was supposed to be gasoline, and no one was injured except a lady Mrs. Marriot, who resided there. She was taken across the street to a house occupied by William James, a bookkeeper. A crowd of spectators surged close up to the building where the fire broke out, and when the flames were got under control and the crowd was beginning to disperse another explosion occurred that shook the earth for several squares distant.

A sheet of flame shot up into the air and the next instant Mr. James' house was a mass of ruins and its occupants were buried beneath the debris. The scene that followed was terrible. Women and men ran to and fro, their faces, heads and shoulders covered with blood. Guided by shrieks and cries, the men who rushed to the rescue of the victims groped about in the darkness and dragged out the injured, and now and then stumbled upon a lifeless body.

The second explosion was of natural gas that came from a leaking gas-main in Wall street. The following is a list of the killed:

CHARLES BECH.
JAMES SEYMOUR, a colored boy.
Mrs. MARRIOT.
An unknown white man and an unknown child.

Some of the wounded are:

Dr. T. K. WISSINGER.	WILLIAM BRODY.
ARCHIE NEIL.	WILLIAM JAMES and wife.
Mr. BANKINGER.	T. SHOUTING.
Policeman SYNSKY.	CHARLES LIOKLEIEER
WILLIAM REILIE.	BELL SMITH.
ELMER GATES.	Mrs. CONN.
ED. KEEMER.	CHARLES LOWERY.
THOMAS DOYLE.	FLORA BOWERS.
TARON BEER.	BENJAMIN MORGAN.

MARSHAL KILBOURNE.

All of the above are badly burned and cut, some perhaps fatally. There were about forty others who received less serious injuries.

INJURED IN A STREET CAR.

A Number of Champaign, Ill., Women Wounded in a Bad Accident.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Jan. 25.—A car on the Urbana & Champaign street railway, crowded with passengers going to the juniors' exhibition at the university of Illinois, left the track and was precipitated down an embankment, seriously injuring several persons. The following are among those injured: Mrs. A. M. Dawson, shoulder broken: Miss Lena Frison, both bones of leg broken; Miss Angie Ireton, arm broken; Mrs. A. T. Hall, Mrs. I. N. Wade, and Miss Helen Butterfield, severely cut about the head. Several others were slightly hurt.

Over 100 Head of Cattle Burned.

LAKOTA, N. Dak., Jan. 25.—A barn at Mapes belonging to Emery Mapes, editor of the Wilson County News, was burned this morning. Over 100 head of cattle perished with all the other contents. The loss is fully $20,000; insurance between $4,000 and $5,000.

THE TRADE REVIEW.

Business Outlook More Favorable—Less Complaint of Slow Collections.

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says business has a decidedly more favorable appearance. Colder weather has brought general increase of activity and improvement in collections. Heavy disbursements by the Treasury for bonds have brought easier money markets, and several troublesome labor controversies have been adjusted. The prevailing sickness, though seriously interrupting trade and industry in many quarters, is distinctly abating at the East. Speculation is still restricted and moderate in volume, while the payments through banks show a steady increase over last year's records, comparatively small at the chief cities, but exceeding 12 per cent at other points.

The woolen business has been a little improved for all grades by the colder weather, and is fairly active for cheaper cassimeres and worsteds, with some gain in heavier woolens. But sales are still narrow and cautious. Cotton goods move fairly at firm prices, but the rise in the material begins to cause some disturbance. The boot and shoe trade is rather better and orders for several months ahead are reported at Boston, with more buying of leather, while hides remain low and show no improvement. The trade in rubber goods is moderate.

Lumber and building material are in steady demand. The coal trade is made more cheerful by cold weather, but the unprecedented accumulation of stock will probably force another suspension of production, as storage is exhausted, and 11,000 cars out of 20,000 in the business are said to be on side tracks loaded. In the minor metals no material change is seen, though copper and tin are a shade lower. The money markets are easier at Philadelphia, St. Louis and Omaha, firm, with ample supply at Chicago, fairly active, with good demand at other western points, but slightly stringent at St. Paul. There is much less complaint of tardy collections, and especial improvements is noticed at Kansas City and Detroit, but tardiness is still seen in the paper and shoe trades in Philadelphia. Business failures during the last seven days were, for the United States, 295; for Canada, 43—total, 338, compared with 336 last week. For the corresponding week of last year the figures were 310 in the United States and 32 in Canada.

Dyspepsia

Makes many lives miserable, and often leads to self destruction. Distress after eating, sick head ache, heartburn, sour stomach, mental depression, etc., are caused by this very common and increasing disease. Hood's Sarsaparilla tones the stomach, creates an appetite, promotes healthy digestion, relieves sick headache, clears the mind, and cures the most obstinate cases of dyspepsia. Read the following:

"I have been troubled with dyspepsia. I had but little appetite, and what I did eat distressed me, or did me little good. In an hour after eating I would experience a faintness or tired, all-gone feeling, as though I had not eaten anything. Hood's Sarsaparilla did me an immense amount of good. It gave me an appetite, and my food relished and satisfied the craving I had previously experienced. It relieved me of that faint, tired, all-gone feeling. I have felt so much better since I took Hood's Sarsaparilla that I am happy to recommend it." G. A. PAGE, Watertown, Mass.

TO BREAK THE DEADLOCK.

Iowa Republicans Will Give the Democrats the Temporary Speakership.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Jan. 25.—There is a general understanding that the unprecedented deadlock in the Iowa House will be broken by the election of Mr. Hotchkiss (Dem.) to be temporary Speaker and Henry S. Wilcox (Rep.) to be temporary clerk. This is the result of negotiations between the caucuses of the two parties. Mr. Hotchkiss' declaration in the House Wednesday that if he were speaker he should not attempt to use his position to oust any Republican on account of the alleged unconstitutionality of the Republican gerrymander in sixteen or more districts has aided materially in bringing about a compromise. It is understood that Mr. Hotchkiss has agreed to sign a written agreement to this effect, and consequently the Republicans feel safe in permitting him to take the chair. The final preliminaries have not yet been arranged, but both parties will hold caucuses in the morning, and a supreme effort will be made to compromise as outlined above.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Jan. 25.—The House, after arranging pairs and taking four roll-calls for temporary clerk, adjourned till afternoon, when it is understood the Republicans will present a proposition for temporary organization. The Senate met and adjourned to Tuesday next.

Scratched 28 Years
Body Covered with Scales. Itching Terrible. Suffering endless. No relief. Doctors and medicines fail. Speedily Cured by Cuticura at a cost of $5.

Cured by Cuticura
If I had known of the Cuticura Remedies twenty eight years ago it would have saved me $200.00 (two hundred dollars) and an immense amount of suffering. My disease (Psoriasis) commenced on my head in spots not larger than a cent. It spread rapidly all over my body and got under my nails. The scales would drop off of me all the time, and my suffering was endless and without relief. One thousand dollars would not tempt me to have this disease over again. I am a poor man, but feel rich to be relieved of what some of the doctors said was leprosy, some ring worm, psoriasis, etc. I took.... and.....Sarsaparillas over one year and a half, but no cure. I went to two or three doctors and no cure. I cannot praise the Cuticura remedies too much. They have made my skin as clear and free from scales as a baby's. All I used of them was three boxes of Cuticura, and three bottles of Cuticura Resolvent, and two cakes of Cuticura Soap. If you had been here and said you would have cured me for $200.00 you would have had the money. I looked like the picture in your book of Psoriasis (picture number two, "How to Cure Skin Diseases," but now I am as clear as any person ever was. Through force of habit I rub my hands over my arms and legs to scratch once in a while, but to no purpose, I am all well. I scratched twenty eight years, and it got to be a second nature to me. I thank you a thousand times. Anything more that you want to know, write me, or any one who reads this may write to me and I will answer it.

STYLES OF THE SEASON.

POPULARITY OF THIN MATERIALS.

Tulle, Net and Gauze in Most Demand Among the Dress Fabrics—Some Pretty Costumes Described and Illustrated—Chat About the Modes.

NEVER WAS there such a rage for tulle, net, gauze, and kindred diaphanous fabrics for evening gowns as now. It is said that at one large dancing party given recently in New York there was not a maid or matron present whose gown was not wholly or in main part of thin material.

Bridal-veil tulle is the diaphanous fabric of the charmingly simple ball-gown in which the young daughter of a Cabinet officer is to make her debut. This fleecy white gown has clusters of white hyacinths, tied with satin ribbon, at the foot of the skirt. A useful detail of the skirt is that it is merely of the veil tulle as it comes folded double, the fold left intact at the foot and the two edges gathered around the waist. Soft Mechlin net of the same width is similarly doubled beneath this skirt, and both are mounted on a satin foundation skirt. The low bodice has folds of tulle laid from the shoulders to the points of the waist, with gathered tulle in the V between, and tiny rosettes of satin ribbon. A second white tulle gown with a wide Roman sash is further enriched and made interesting by having its corsage caught up on the shoulders and in front by two brilliant buckles that once belonged to George Washington, who wore them as shoe-buckles; they are now most highly prized treasures in the collection of the young lady's distinguished father, who insists that she must always add them herself at the last moment before putting on her gown.

CHARMING BALL GOWN.

Among colored ball-gowns is one of pink fish-net over pink satin, with three rows of wide pink moire ribbon around the skirt and pink crystal fringe falling below the ribbon. A novelty in black net gowns is one with flowered gold stripes made with straight full back breadths, while the front and sides of the skirt are caught up with rosettes at intervals half-way down to the knees. The black satin foundation skirt has an accordion-plaiting of plain black net, which has two rows of gold braid set upon it. The low-pointed bodice with sleeves much puffed has a row of plaited gold braid around the neck and a frill above of the plain black net taken double. The ribbon on this waist is arranged in the popular fashion of beginning with a point at the top and middle of the front, then sloping away under each arm, and narrowly folded to the point at the back below the waist, where it is tied in a bow with long drooping loops and ends. Black satin ribbon two inches wide is used on this gown. Prettiest of all is a ball gown of pale gray mousseline de soie, embroidered with polka-dots, and widely bordered with silver thistles wrought above the hem. This forms the skirt, which is quite full all around, caught up on the left side in Grecian fashion, and has lengthwise satin ribbons from waist to foot on the right side, ending in rosettes below. The round gray velvet bodice is cut off straight across the top just below the arms, and is filled out to a proper height with gray mousseline de soie. The puffed sleeves are also of the mousseline, and a twist of this soft fabric is set on the edge of the waist.

Trained gowns of velvet, brocade, or satin, with accessories of lisse, mousseline de soie, or lace, will be worn to the ceremonious dinners and receptions so frequent in Washington. Many ladies, the wives of Senators and members of the Cabinet, have abandoned low corsages, leaving them for their daughters, and will themselves wear bodices that are high in the back, with the front cut low, square, or pointed, and filled in to the throat with any of the transparent soft fabrics now in vogue. The sleeves are small or large, as best suits the wearer, and are composed of the two fabrics of the gown. In many cases the dark velvet is seen only at the back of the gown, while the entire front is of a light brocade, or of two light fabrics, such as a pale brocade with white chiffon muslin or lace, with some added trimming of pearl and gold or beaded embroidery on the bodice, and Prince of Wales clusters of ostrich feathers catching up the drapery of the tablier.

EVENING DRESS.

Velvet trains for women of average height are made of four breadths; their greatest length is seventy-five inches, and they are round or oval at the end, with very straight sides; at the top the middle breadths are thickly plaited and are usually set on the end of the velvet bodice; the side breadths are then drawn back to the middle at the top and hooked there to keep the train in slender, graceful shape. Velvet is put quite plain down the back or the front of elbow sleeves and the brocade or transparent fabric is set on quite full. The front of the gown shows most elaboration, the skirt consisting of a middle breadth of brocade in cross-folds, placed to suit the wearer's figure, and a flat plaited breadth of the same each side, with a full gathered panel of mousseline de chiffon or of spangled net or embroidered lisse between these breadths. Sometimes these brocade breadths are set in plain, when it is well to slit them up from the foot, in openings eight or ten inches deep and only four inches apart, to keep them from drawing, and a flounce of lace or of lisse should be put underneath to show in the openings. The front of the bodice is round or pointed, with the brocade coming down plainly from the shoulders, and the velvet beginning in the side seams and pointing to the waist. The open neck is edged by wide trimming of pearl and gold spangles on net, with some gold-bead fringe or wired gold points, in which are set colored stones that look like jewels. Mousseline or lisse is gathered in guimpe fashion in the open neck, and drawn around the throat with very simple standing frills, or else a band of the jeweled trimming forms a high collar.

Dinner gowns for young ladies are made of flowered Louis Quinze brocades with the half-low square bodice and short pointed demi-train shown in the illustration. The bodice is draped from the high shoulders to the slight point at the waist-line with embroidered crepe lisse or with mousseline de soie. A sash drapes the edge of the bodice and falls in long ends finished with fringe. The skirt is quite straight, with a slightly draped front breadth edged with fringe, and the right side has a panel of embroidery. Dark damask roses like those in the brocade are worn on the corsage as a necklace and in the coiffure. The fan is of red gauze, the slippers of red satin, and the gloves are cream white Suede.

Dinner dresses made of costly materials are much trimmed with black lace. Two such were lately seen—one of striped silk, with a bodice of both stuffs drawn in at the waist by a very wide band of silk starting from the seams under the arms: the skirt has a wide panel of plaited lace down the center, and just above the knee a flat plaited lace flounce scalloped out at the edge and meeting the silk train bordered with lace mounted plain. For the second grenat velvet, antique-rose silk, and black lace are used; the sleeves and pointed plastron back and front are of bands of lace and velvet, one silk front being crossed over above the waist to show the center part of the velvet. On the upper silk skirt, made with a square plaited train and caught up high at the side, are seen five bands of lace and velvet.

A very graceful tea gown also shown is of soft silk of a light pink shade called rose d'orient, and is trimmed with white oriental lace. The tunic drapery of the front forms an apron; it is mounted quite full on the shoulders, and is caught slightly at the waist, falling thence to the foot. The back is en princesse, with ample plaits forming a fan in the middle. The sleeves are cut quite full and in a simple and favorite shape. The deep plaited collar is surmounted by a rose ribbon cravat. Catogan coiffure tied with rose-colored ribbon.

PRETTY TEA GOWN.

Fashion Chat.

The foot-ruching and the draped skirt are incompatible, and this pretty trimming should only be applied where the round, full skirt is perfectly plain.

Both light and low coiffures are worn, but the most fashionable girls dress their locks low, and band them with fillets of ribbon, or silver, or gold, a la Grecque.

Virot uses sealskin for winter capotes, with white velvet and orange velvet, but she discards astrakhan as being too hard and unbecoming to the face—and she is right.

The fancy for boxes has revived the sandlewood, perfumed and carved, with inlaid and cameo mounting, so dear to the mothers of the present generation and useful as a receptacle for gloves, laces or letters.

Letters with wings form the legend "Angels guard thy slumbers" embroidered on the star and crescent decorated ground of some very pretty baby afghans or blankets seen among the baby articles offered for Christmas gifts.

Silvered grasses, thistles, "dusty miller" leaves, and a great deal of fine silver ornamentation are used on net or tulle, these trimmings rivaling the pearl bead and gold passementeries in favor, Silver Marguerites, Alpine roses, pussy willow, fern fonds, and ivy veined with silver are all employed.

One of the prettiest fads in fancy needlework articles is a butterfly pincushion of brown pongee silk, embroidered with yellow, black, and gold arasene; thread and cord to imitate the rings and body of the gorgeous insect. The antennæ are made of two silver pins bent into the required shape; the eyes of two black, or red, or yellow glass-headed pins.

ALL DISORDERS CAUSED by a bilious state of the system can be cured by using Carter's Little Liver Pills. No pain, griping or discomfort attending their use. Try them.

JANESVILLE MARKETS.

CORRECTED BY FRANK GRAY

JANESVILLE, Jan. 22, 1890.

Receipts of grain have increased a little over the previous week, the roads being fairly good for wheeling. The market holds steady at prices quoted; there is a good demand for best milling wheat, and bran and oats are selling readily at quotations. Barley shows a trifle better demand for the very best choice heavy, while medium grades rule easy, and low grades dull as heretofore. In the live stock market we note a firmer feeling, more especially for hogs round lots of even, heavy packing, selling to best advantage.

A Fearful Blunder

Angry parent—What! been discharged after one week's work as brakeman?

Son—Yes; they said I was too green for them.

Parent—Well, well, I thought you were pretty well up in that kind of business. What mistake did you make?

Son—Called the names of the stations so the passengers could understand them first time.

A Striking Costume

Dumpsey—I saw Blobson's wife in a striking costume to-day.

Popinjay—Indeed! What was it?

Dumpsey—Why, she had a broomstick in one hand and a flatiron in the other, and Blobson was helping to wear the broomstick.

Mr. Brentley—I'd like to know when it comes in!

Mrs. Brentley—It always comes in just after you have gone out. (And he started the happy hour at once.)

Took an Interest

First traveling man—Hello, Jack! I haven't seen you for a dog's age. How are you?

Second T. M.—First-class, George; getting on first rate.

First T. M.—Glad to hear it.

Second T. M.—Fact is, George, I have an interest in the business now myself.

First T. M.—You don't say so! When did that happen?

Second T. M.—First of the year.

First T. M.—Well, well, I congratulate you. How did it come about?

Second T. M.—Well, like this: Just before the first old Cashbox called me into the private office and told me I had got to take an interest in the business or quit, so I am taking an interest in it now, see?

A Business Man's Mistake.

Stranger (who has yelled himself hoarse over Jinks' telephone without getting any reply)—"See here, I can't do anything with this telephone."

Jinks (with an air of innocence)—"Did you wish to speak to any one, sir?"

"Certainly."

"Oh! It has been disconnected for about a month."

"Disconnected? You didn't say anything about it."

"I thought everybody knew we had disconnected our telephone on account of the bores. I didn't know you wished to talk to anyone, sir. I suppose you merely wished to exercise your lungs."

Ample Cause for Divorce

"Well, the crash has come," said Mr. Brierly, as he returned to the sitting-room after answering the door bell.

"What! George Brierly, have you failed? Well, I've been predicting it all along, and I told you if—"

"Hold on, dear, you don't—"

"I won't hold on either—I have told you a hundred times that you'd never get me a sealskin and now (sobs) the—crash—has—come."

"Yes, dear, the crash has come—didn't you tell me yesterday that you wanted a piece to make some towels?"

Jinks' Mistake.

Blinks—What? Can't keep your engagement with me?

Jinks (sadly)—No, I can't. I was drawn on a jury this week and couldn't get out of it.

"Did you try?"

"Indeed I did. I did my best to make myself out to be a hopeless ignoramus, but they wouldn't let me go."

"Great Scott, man! The way to escape jury duty is to act as if you knew something."

Quite Constitutional.

Franklin Parke—I hear there is going to be an organized movement this season against decollete dresses.

Beacon street—Well, what of that?

"I think it may have some effect, don't you?"

"No, I don't. No such movement could have weight in a free country like this. The second amendment to the constitution, you know, says that 'the right to bear arms shall not be infringed.'"

It Did Not Please Sagasta.

MADRID, Jan. 25.—It is officially denied that there is a secret understanding between Spain and Portugal. Senor Sagasta condemns the action of the populace of Lisbon.

THE COUNTY PRINTING.

As Explained by One of the Interested Parties.

THE POINTS FAIRLY STATED

Col. Ingersoll, of the Beloit Free Press, Tells the Whole Story.

The Beloit Free Press, of last evening, contains the following:—

"The Janesville Gazette and the Janesville Recorder are tilting away at each other at a great rate over the county printing, and all because the county supervisors lent themselves to aid a nice "little game" of brother Clark of the Recorder. Notwithstanding it is a part of the duties of the county clerk to procure the county supplies, every once in a while the supervisors reach out and seek to lop off this or that duty cunningly instigated thereto by some chap who hopes thereby to either turn an "honest penny" himself or make "troubles" for the other fellow, he don't care much which. This undoubtedly is about the way of it with this present "county printing" business. Any man fit to be a supervisor knows very well that when once a man is elected to the office of county clerk, he will inevitably be a candidate for re-election, and to further that candidacy, which, by the way is in every way laudable and proper, he will endeavor to so conduct the material interests of the county confided to his hands as to win the encomiums and commendation of those before whom all his official actions must come for official review and final action. Among the duties of the county clerk is that of procuring the printing supplies, and a clerk who will either ignorantly or knowingly permit the party to whom he secures these supplies to mulct him, and through him the county, in unfair charges, is either an ass or a knave, and consequently has no business to be county clerk; and what is more, won't be more than one term. His hopes of continuance in office is an absolute safeguard against imposition by dealers in any class of supplies whatever. As political parties are now constituted it is very right, and eminently proper that those holding elective offices should favor those to whom they are politically indebted in every honorable manner. If they don't they are unworthy the efforts made in their behalf by friends to secure their nomination and election. Right here comes in this county printing business. A very large majority of the county board and all the county officers are republican in politics. They were nominated because they were republicans, and elected because they were republicans and everyone of them was supported by the republican newspapers and opposed by the democratic newspapers. Political decency fairly demands that if there are supplies to be procured, the men thus elected to office shall, so far as they honorably can, procure them of those who were instrumental in elevating them to positions of authority and emolument. Political independence and manliness certainly does not require them to submit to the dictation of a small but malignant minority that never has had and never will have the real interests of the people at heart, but always cloaks its selfish designs with fervent declarations of its desire to secure "the public good." The Janesville Gazette Company has done the larger part of the county printing for years. And very properly so, for it is not only the republican printing concern at the county seat, but it is the largest republican printing concern in the county, and by reason of its special equipment for county work, can do it certainly as well and at as low if not lower figures than any other concern in the county. It is within the power of the board of supervisors at any time to submit the prices charged for work by the Gazette company to a disinterested expert, and until that is done and it has been proven that the company has exacted unfair prices of the county, it is not justice towards that company for the republican board to in effect, publicly doubt the business honesty of that Company at the demand of a designing political opponent, which is just what was done when the board adopted the resolution requiring the clerk to advertise for bids, offered by a certain member at the instigation of an outside party. Under all the circumstances, the board had every right to table the resolution, and, if the members had doubts about the matter, to appoint a special committee to investigate the Gazette's prices.

'The Free Press knows from its own experience that the Gazette company is not robbing the county by charging exorbitant prices for the work it does for the county. We had occasion in the past to run up against the Gazette's rates, and we don't hesitate to say that so long as we desire to treat our creditors honestly and honorably we wouldn't do the work for less money than the Gazette has asked and received for it. Any disinterested competent printer will say the same thing. Very likely there could be found those in this county who would do printing for less than it costs, even as there might be found those who would serve as supervisors, or as county clerk or in any other official capacity, for less than the per diem or per annum pay now allowed, and just why the former is sought to be let out at auction and not the latter also, is, under all the circumstances, political and otherwise, decidedly inconsistent."

Thank you, Col. Ingersoll. You have told the whole story. Now let the "fifth calf" bleat away for pap.

The Recorder of this morning devotes considerable space to comments from the Edgerton Reporter, Mr. Coon's paper, the Edgerton Index, Supervisor Jensen's paper, and the Madison Democrat on the subject of "That County Printing."

Concerning Mr. Coon, the Gazette will state that he made no bid for the work; he came within nine days of it, filing simultaneously with the Recorder a copy of their list. The only mistake that the committee of the county board made, was in regarding their propositions at all. Mr. Coon understands, and admits, that the object and intention of the Jensen resolution was to give the Recorder a chance at the county printing. The republican members of the board so understood it, after the question was discussed, and by a vote of twenty to four expressed their opinion. Mr. Jensen did not file a bid for his paper.

Why?

Because he knew, as does every intelligent supervisor, that the county printing can not be done to advantage away from the county seat.

The board accepted the bid of the Gazette for two reasons:

First, because it was the lowest; and second, because they did not propose to vote patronage to an organ that devoted twelve months of the year to vilifying and maligning the republican party and its representatives.

So far as the Madison Democrat is concerned, the Gazette will simply say that their Janesville correspondent has worms.

A REPRESENTATIVE AMERICAN INSTITUTION.

The New York Central & Hudson River Railroad is to-day recognized by the traveling public, and also quite generally by its competitors, as being in many respects the representative Trunk line leading from the Atlantic seaboard. The merit of this distinction rests largely upon unsurpassed natural advantages, supplemented by a liberal and progressive policy.

It is the aim of the Central management to provide for the patrons of this line the best service attainable, and to this end all the resources of this great company are intelligently directed. A splendid roadway, admirable train service, and magnificent equipment, are features which place the New York Central in the foremost rank among the railroads of the United States.

THE WEATHER.

At seven o'clock this morning the thermometer indicated 25 degrees above zero. Partly cloudy with south wind. At one o'clock p. m. the register was 40 degrees above zero. Partly cloudy with south wind. For the corresponding hours one year ago the register was 20 and 40 degrees degrees above zero.

THE CHARTER ELECTION.

A Brief Synopsis of the Modified Voting System.

ONLY ONE OFFICIAL BALLOT

How Nominations are Made—No Electioneering or Ticket Peddling.

Municipal or local politics is destined to warm up a little earlier than usual this spring, and already there is some quiet work being done in the interest of this and that individual. Heretofore party caucuses and conventions have not been held until a few days previous to the election, generally the conventions being held on Friday or Saturday previous to the election, leaving only one or two days for political campaign work. The Oshkosh Northwestern has made a synopsis of the new election law, covering all points except that of registration, which applies to all cities in the state outside of Milwaukee. Under this law, known as chapter 248, laws of 1889, the nominations are required to be made at least fifteen days prior to the day of election. Not only will this necessitate the holding of caucuses and conventions two week earlier than has been customary heretofore, but it will force upon the people a campaign of two weeks between the nomination and election. Probably those who have found two or three days all too short to conduct a municipal campaign will find a sufficiency in two whole weeks of turmoil.

The methods provided are the material features of what is known as the Australian system. The synopsis given below will be confined to those provisions which are applicable to the municipal or charter election. Under this law the next election in this city will be held after this fashion: The ballots will be provided at public expense, and the names of all the candidates for all the offices must be printed on the same ballot. Nominations of persons to be voted for may be made as now by party caucuses and conventions. A political party is defined as an organization whose nominees received at least two per cent of the votes cast at the previous election. These nominations must state the name, business and place of residence of the nominees, and the political designation of each, which must be certified to under oath by the chairman and secretary of the nominating body and filed with the county clerk. Nominations may also be made by petition, signed by not less than fifty voters of the district, each signer being required to make the oath that he is a qualified elector. These certificates and nominating papers must be filed with the county clerk not less than fifteen days before the day of election. At least seven days prior to election the county clerk must publish in two and not more than four daily papers of opposing politics the names of the nominations thus filed, printed in the same type and precise form of arrangement as the ballot to be voted. The law requires it to be a facsimile of the ballot. The county clerk must send printed lists of the nominations to the aldermen of each ward who are required to post them in one or more public places. The county clerk is required also to have printed on cards in large, clear type, instructions telling voters how to obtain ballots and how to mark them, such cards to be posted in each compartment of the voting place.

The official ballot must be printed in black ink on white paper of specified quality and be not more than 13½ inches long and not less than twelve inches wide. The names of all candidates must be printed in alphabetical order under the designation of the office for which they have been nominated, leaving sufficient space at the right of each for the voter to mark a cross. The county clerk is required to cause such ballots to be printed in sufficient quantities, designated in the law, and deliver them to the city clerk who shall distribute them to the election inspectors.

The law also provides that the polling places shall be supplied with compartments or shelves divided by screens where voters may mark their ballots in secret, and that a railing be so placed that only those in the act of marking their ballots or casting the same may approach within five feet of the ballot box or the marking booths. Only those preparing ballots or in the act of voting and the challengers are allowed within said railing. On August 24th last the Gazette published diagrams showing how these election booths should be arranged.

The official ballots are supplied to the voters as they pass behind the railing by two ballot clerks who must write their names or initials on the back of each ballot, and only one ballot is given to each voter. On receiving such properly endorsed official ballot the voter will repair to one of the booths and prepare the same by marking an X opposite the name of each candidate he desires to vote for. He must then fold the ballot so as to leave the signature of the ballot clerks visible on the outside and present it to the inspector to be cast. No ballot is to be received by the inspector unless an official ballot properly endorsed by the signatures of the two ballot clerks. The voter is permitted, however, to bring with him an unofficial ballot marked in order to assist him in marking his official ballot, but such unofficial sample ballot must not be of the same color or appearance as the official ballot and cannot be received and voted. No voter is permitted to occupy a marking booth longer than ten minutes. Any voter who declares under oath that he is unable from physical disability to mark his ballot, may take a person with him to the booth to mark his ballot for him. The law was intended to afford this opportunity to those who cannot read, but by some mistake this was left out. The attorney general, however, has recently issued an opinion that this omission does not vitiate the law.

The number of marking booths supplied must be not less than one for every fifty voters, and election precincts must be divided so as to contain not over 500 voters to each voting place, according to the vote cast at the last presidential election.

No officer of election shall do any electioneering, and no person shall solicit votes or do any electioneering in the voting place or within 100 feet of it. No person shall show his marked ballot to any other person, and no person shall solicit a voter to show a ballot. Penalities are provided for the violation of any of the provisions of the law.

The next municipal election will be somewhat a novel one, in that it will be conducted on an entirely new system. There will be no electioneering, no crowds of ticket peddlers, no split tickets, no importuning election workers, none of the thousand and one annoyances that surround the voting places under the old plan.

She'd Manage the Business.

"Kin I git Missus Artichoke Jones arrested?" queried an aged colored woman at police headquarters yesterday.

"What for?" asked the sergeant.

"She has dun frowed mo' dan fo' hundred dead cats into my darter's back yard."

"Why didn't your daughter come down and complain?"

"Kase she lets folks tread on her. Hain't got no mo' grit dan a grass-hopper."

"Well, we'll see about it."

"Will she go to jail fur ten y'ars?"

"Hardly."

"Fur five?"

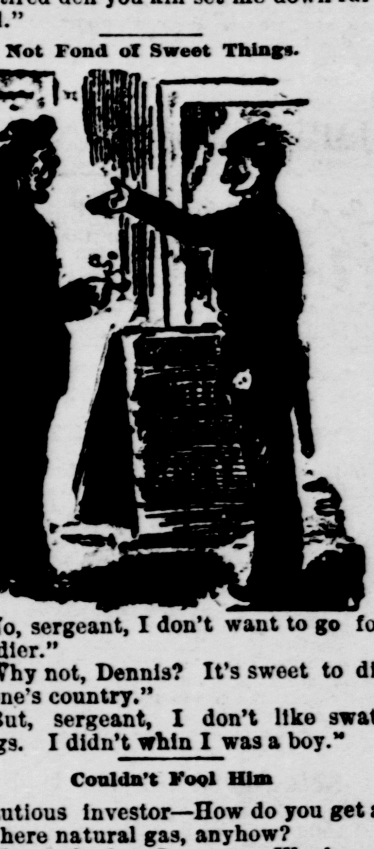
"Probably not."

"Hu! Won't she go to jail 'tall?"

"I don't think so."

"Den you jess drap de hull business an' leave it to me! I'll go home an' fling cats into her yard 'till she can't git out doahs! I'll fling fo' hundred—six hundred—hull waginloads of de biggest and de deadest cats in de world! You dun keep right away! I'ze managing dis business, an' if I doan' make Mrs. Jones tired den you kin set me down fur a child."

Not Fond of Sweet Things.



"No, sergeant, I don't want to go for a soldier."

"Why not, Dennis? It's sweet to die for one's country."

"But, sergeant, I don't like swate things. I didn't whin I was a boy."

Couldn't Fool Him

Cautious Investor—How do you get at this here natural gas, anyhow?

Officer of the Company—We bore a hole in the ground till we strike what is called a pocket of gas. Then we run it through pipes to the houses of the consumers.

"But mightn't somebody else bore down and strike the same pocket?"

"Not in our vicinity. We own all the land for miles."

"Got a good title?"

"Been examined by the best lawyers in the country and pronounced absolutely perfect."

"Any lawyers in your company?"

"I think we have not less than six, and some of them own large amounts of stock."

(Buttoning up his coat). "Six lawyers and only one pocket! I've got no money to put in it, b'gosh!"

Not So Bandy-Legged as He Looked

They sat on the sofa. They had just come to a mutual understanding, and he had measured her finger for the engagement ring, and they were in the first throes of tender reminiscence.

"You do not remember," he said in a trembling voice—"you do not remember when you first saw me."

"Yes, I do."

"Did any little thrill or throb tell your heart this happy moment would come? No; that could not be expected."

"Yes, something did seem to whisper that we might become man and wife."

"My darling," he said, and he kissed her fondly.

"Yes, I remember I saw you from the window leaving the house, and I thought you were bandy-legged, and I thought how awful it would be to marry a bandy-legged man, but it was only the glass in the window that was uneven and made you look so."

Asking Too Much

Phunneman (just engaged to conduct the joke department of the Sidesplitter)—See here, Mr. Manager, are these my instructions?

"Yes, sir."

"Well, I guess I might as well resign."

"Resign! What do you mean. sir?"

"Mean? I mean just this, I am going to quit. I'm willing to do what is right, but when a man expects me to conduct the funny department of his paper and not say a word about mothers-in-law, typewriters, bathing suits, or party dresses it is carrying things just a little too far, and I want you to understand sir, that I cannot be imposed upon in any such manner. No, sir, not by a jugful."

A Western Bunko Game.

Real estate agent (Dugout City, Kan.)—"Stranger just arrived in town from the East. Rush around to the hotel, greet him as a long-lost brother or something, and when he explains that there is some mistake cover your confusion by inviting him to drink."

New man—"Maybe he won't accept it."

"Oh, yes, he'll accept; to relieve your embarrassment. They always do."

"Yes, sir. What next?"

"Keep him in conversation until I come around and ask to speak with you on business. Then introduce me, and we'll have another drink. That settle it. Two drinks of Dugout City whisky will make any man feel rich enough to buy the hull earth."

It Looks That Way

Wallis—Did Black win the lawsuit he had over that large sum of money?

Wallace—I suppose he did. He told me he lacked only $450 of having enough money to pay the lawyer after it was over.

Precautions Against Fire.

A very nervous old lady coming in on the 10:30 train at Des Moines the other night was put by the hotel clerk on the very top floor of the hotel. As the chambermaid was bustling out of the room she stopped her and asked in a trembling voice:

"Do you know what precaution the proprietor has taken against fire?"

"Yis, mum; yis mum," said the bright one. "He has the place inshured fur twicet wat it's worth."

A Sporting Proposition.

"Looky here, mister," said a tramp, ragged, unkempt, and dirty, as he walked up to a couple of traveling men. Looky here; is either of you two fellers anything much in the sportin' line?" and he grasped his garments over his stomach as he made the inquiry.

"What do you want with a sporting man?"

"Well, is either of you sports? That's what I wants to know first."

"My friend here sometimes takes a bet if he can get a good one. But what do you want?"

"I want somebody to get rich bettin' that I can't eat thirty quail in thirty days. And it won't cost him a cent so far as I am concerned—nothin' but the birds."

A Word About "The Home."

Our monthly journal devoted to home interests. It IS NOT an advertising dodge of our other enterprises in any possible way. In fact it is our present intention never to encroach on its 32 columns with our own "ads" and all other "ads." admitted to it, over 12 columns, thus leaving for every issue at least 20 columns of the best and most interesting reading matter it is in our power to produce. While this is true as regards the advertising space in this journal we SHALL say a good many interesting and true things about RIVERVIEW PARK that we have not space to say in the city dailies. In short, while our main object in publishing "THE HOME," is NOT to advertise our real estate, we will use its columns to a limited extent to so advertize. WHAT IS our main object in the publishing of this journal? ask you; this is a laudable and proper curiosity, and we would reply. We are in Janesville permanently. We see many things, that our very large experience in nearly every important city between the Atlantic and Pacific has brought to our notice that we THINK may benefit this city—our future home; and we are led to desire to speak of these things, and we are going to do it to the best of our ability. We can do this full as cheap in a journal of our own as we could through the daily papers, and feel at liberty to "let ourselves loose" in our own paper. This is one of our ideas. Our PRINCIPAL motive is, we are IN LOVE with home, OUR HOME and all true homes. We would in these, our last years, fain say and do something to build up, encourage and promote lovely homes; whatever may be OUR DOING this is what we desire TO DO. We are egotistical enough to think we can say some good words through this medium of ours. We propose to try to do it.

If you see a copy of "The Home" and think you will like to see it every month, we shall be glad to have your address and TWENTY-FIVE CENTS for a year's subscription. The January number is now out and can be obtained at our office or from our canvassers.

Yours very truly,
GEO. L. & SARAH H. CARRINGTON.
